

Locals selected as Red Sox bat boys

Stoneham mentor Larry Warnock, and his mentee AJ, age 17, from Reading, have been selected as honorary bat boys prior to the May 7 Red Sox-Cleveland Indians game at Fenway Park. They are from the Partners for Youth With Disabilities program and will be attending the game as part of the annual "Mentoring Night at Fenway Park," in which 700 mentors and mentees from across Massachusetts will be hosted at the game by the Red Sox and Mass Mentoring Partnership.

They were selected by MMP as one of seven matches to participate in various pre-game and game-time events, including the ceremonial first pitch, announcing the starting lineup, and saying "Play Ball!"
